TEUTONS CLAIM CAP-TURE OF FLORINA IN
BALKAN REGION.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 18.—Under the hammer of the Russian troops, the Austro-German counter offensive on the Zlota Lipa river in Galicia has been completely repulsed.

This announcement was made today in an official communication from the war office which also reports important progress for the Russians in the Carpathians where important mountain heights have been occupied at Jablonitz pass.

The text of the official statement follows:

"The enemy offensive has been repulsed on the Zlota Lipa west of Podhais. On the Bystraya-Solovina river we have occupied Lysskarsky on the western bank. We have occupied the heights at Ardeus.

London, Aug. 18.—The Germans on the Somme front renewed their offensive against the British last night, but with no better success than resulted from the six great assaults which were broken up by the gallant defense of the English soldiers on Thursday.

The official reports issued by the war office states that the Germans made a night attack in the sector of Martin-Puich, northwest of Highwood (Foreaux forest), but that it was repulsed.

At the same time the British drove home a counter attack northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit, which resulted in an extension of their gains in that region.

The German artillery fire along the British front increased in volume.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Official admission was made in the official war office statement today that the Germans have been pushed back by the British southwest of Martin-Puich on the Somme front, but other attacks by British troops north of Pozieres were repulsed.

On the Verdun front violent fighting has broken out in the sector of Fleury. The action is still in progress.

On the Balkan front, says the report, the Teuton allies have captured Florina.

Florina is in Greece 18 miles south of Monastir and just east of the railway which runs from Monastir to Saloniki.

VON MACKENSEN IN WEST.

Conqueror of Serbia Takes Command of Germans in France.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—There has been a complete regrouping of German forces and German commands on the western front since the beginning of the allies' offensive. Field Marshal von Mackensen, who conquered Serbia and helped Field Marshal von Hindenburg roll back the Russians in the great Teuton drive on the eastern front last summer, has been put in full command of all the Germans on the western front except the army of the crown prince, according to word brought to Paris from the Somme front by French army officers.

The new German commander in chief is reported to have with him as his trusted aid two of the generals who played a leading part in the "Austro-German" offensive against Russia. They are General von Gallwitz and General von Arnim.

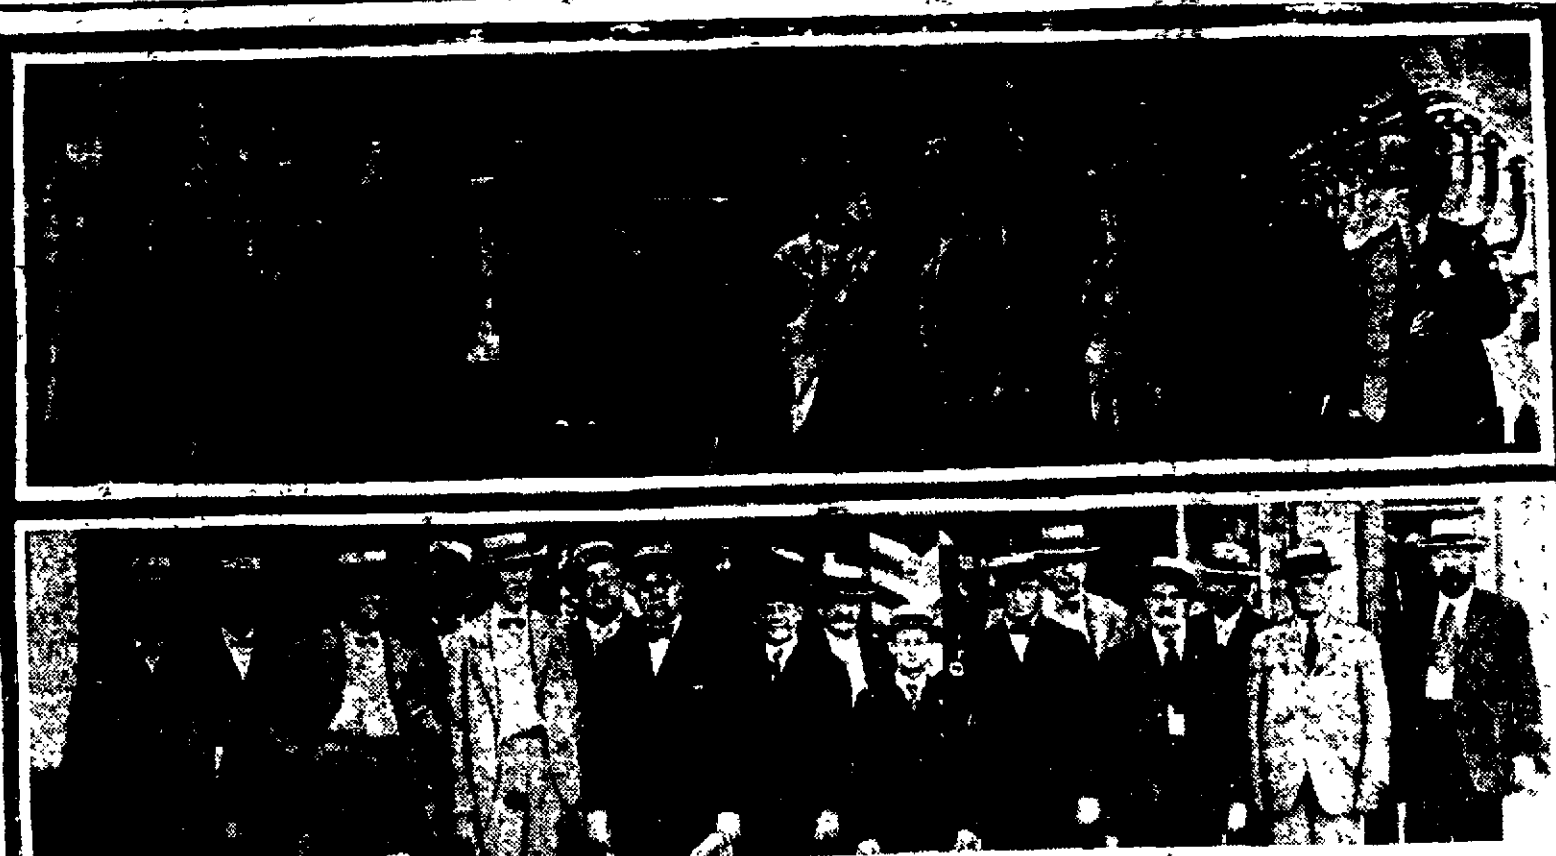

The alignment on the western front is nearly a duplicate of that on the eastern front, which seems to acknowledge the superiority of the German generals on the eastern front over those in the western theater of war. Just as in the east, Field Marshal von Hindenburg has full control except over the armies of Archduke Karl Franz, so on the western front von Mackensen's authority is supreme except over the army of the German crown prince at Verdun.

Field Marshal von Mackensen is supposed to be personally directing the German defense on the Somme front. French and British army officers who have just come to Paris from the Somme battlefield declare that even German prisoners of war are ignorant as to the identity of the

Crisis In Strike Negotiations Reached at White House This Afternoon

SITUATION IS CLEARING Financial Interests Reported to Be Willing to Make Concessions Under Protest and Pressure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Negotiations still are in progress to settle the impending railroad strike. The railroad presidents, summoned here to confer with President Wilson, did not break off negotiations with him this afternoon, as threatened in advance. Instead they listened to his demand that they accept the proposition he already had put up to the brotherhood representatives: That the eight-hour day be granted at pro rata pay for overtime, and that all collateral issues be settled by a commission named by the president under constitutional authorization.

As the railway chiefs left the White House the announcement came from the union men that the representatives of the "big four" railway brotherhoods had accepted President Wilson's plan, submitted to them last night, to avert the threatened railroad strike. In a lengthy meeting in the Bijou theater, the committeemen had voted to sanction the plan and so notified the White House.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The railway strike crisis was at its most serious point today. The president this afternoon explained to the railroad presidents summoned here by him that they must make concessions to their men or take responsibility before the country for any labor trouble. The "big four" brotherhood delegates, behind closed and carefully guarded doors in the Bijou theater, debated at length their acceptance of the presidential plan which gives the eight-hour day, but denies overtime at increased rates. The brotherhood leaders were lined up for the plan and expressed complete confidence that eventually it would be approved.

During the morning the railway presidents conferred with their committees of managers. They unqualifiedly approved all that had been done and in order to prepare powerful arguments to back up their claim that to accept the president's solution would spell bankruptcy for the roads and sound the death knell of arbitration to settle labor disputes, secured postponement of their planned conference with the president from 11:30 until 2 p. m.

The general situation was admittedly charged with dynamite, but White House officials expressed the utmost confidence that the skies were clearing and that eventually both sides would agree to the plan of the president.

It is understood that certain of the big financial interests in New York have sent word here to the railroad presidents to fight as long as there seemed a possible chance of gaining anything, but that if it developed that the president is unalterably committed to the proposition made to the men, then the roads will accept it under protest and make the best of it.

RAILWAY HEAD STAND PAT.

Understood They Approve Action of Their Managers Thus Far.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—President Wilson and the railway managers and the president's summons here by his direction were in a deadlock today. Practically all of the railway's chiefs who have arrived here unqualifiedly approve the position taken by the managers in rejecting the administration's compromise plan which would give the men the eight-hour work day with pro-rata pay for overtime. This was made very plain at their various conferences. But, out of respect to the president, the heads of the big railroad systems refused to be quoted or even to admit that they had adopted any position pending today's meeting at the White House.

At two conferences, one last night and the other this morning, the railroad heads heard in detail just what the managers had done. It was agreed that in the discussion with the White House, the opposition to the eight-hour work day suggested in the administration conference, would not be placed entirely on economic grounds. While it was agreed that the expense was prohibitive, the men responsible for the operation of the great railway systems of the country insisted that it would be impossible to re-arrange schedules so as to maintain the present high class service on an eight-hour work day basis. They insisted that the promise made to the president by the brotherhood representatives and passed along by him to the managers, that the men would do as much work in eight hours as they now do in ten was impossible of fulfillment.

Despite the attitude of opposition expressed by the railway chiefs there was an atmosphere of great optimism at the White House prior to the conference with the railroad chiefs.

All of the railway presidents summoned by the president were on hand in person, or by their executive representatives, when they resumed their conference at 8:30 this morning with the exception of President John H. Peyton, of the N. O. and St. L. and he was expected during the day.

It was expected that when the presidents reached the White House at 11:30 they would listen to the arguments of President Wilson and would then make it plain that they had every confidence in the managers and endorsed the attitude of latter had taken.

There was plenty of anti-administration feeling in evidence among the railroad chiefs during the morning and most of the older men argued that they ought to defy the president and stand pat on their refusal. But a number of leaders, privately admitted that eventually they believed they would be forced to give in. They declared that they did not believe they could afford, in the present state of public opinion, to defy the president and the men and permit a strike to take place. With congress in session, certain leaders said, it would be very easy for the administration to enact legislation that would prove troublesome.

PRESIDENT VETOES ARMY BILL BECAUSE OF ONE PROVISION

Bill Re-introduced at Once With Retired Officers' Section Omitted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—President Wilson today vetoed the army appropriation bill. At the same time he sent to the house a lengthy message making plain that this action was entirely due to the incorporation into the measure of the provision that retired officers should not be subject to the articles of war.

In his veto message the president declares that the army bill is an essential part of the national defense plan and that experienced "genuine reluctance" in delaying its going into effect by asking that the objectionable provision be eliminated. He admits the necessity to bring the articles of war up to date as they are in the bill and then declares they should apply to all officers both active and retired.

In conclusion, the president says: "The purpose of the articles of war in times of peace is to bring about a uniformity in the application of military discipline which will make the entire organization coherent and effective and to engender a spirit of co-operation and proper subordination to authority which will in time of war instantly make the entire army a unit in its purpose of self-sacrifice and devotion to duty in the national defense. These purposes cannot be accomplished if the retired officers, still a part of the military establishment still relied upon to perform important duties, are excluded, upon retirement, from the wholesome and unifying effect of this subject to a common discipline. I am persuaded that officers upon the retired list would themselves regard as an invidious and unpalatable discrimination which in effect excluded them from full membership in the profession to which they have devoted their lives, and of which, by laws of their country, they are still members. So long as congress sees fit to make the retired personnel a part of the army of the United States, the constitutionality of the proposed exemption of such personnel from all liability under the articles of war is a matter of serious doubt, leaving the president, as it does, without any means sanctioned by statute, of exerting over the personnel thus exempted the power of command vested in him by the constitution."

The veto message, immediately upon receipt in the house, was referred to the military affairs committee without comment.

Chairman James Hay of the house military affairs committee reintroduced the army appropriation bill in the house with the entire articles of war eliminated within half an hour after the president's veto had been received.

WILLIS AND HERRICK LOCK HORNS ABOUT COMMITTEE HEAD

Parmenter Gives Way to Morrow as Compromise Selection.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—The unanimous selection of Former Congressman D. Q. Morrow of Hillsboro, for chairman of the republican state central committee was made here late yesterday. There were no other nominations. The selection of Morrow was the compromise reached after a conference, lasting nearly six hours, at the governor's office between Governor Willis, former Governor Herrick, members of the central committee, including W. L. Parmenter of Lima, Peter Durr of Cincinnati, and George Harris of Cleveland, and Attorney General Turner, Secretary of State Hildebrand, State Treasurer Archer and other republican nominees for state office.

So serious did the conference become, Governor Willis and Herrick, the republican nominees for United States senator, did not leave the state house at the noon hour. The conference started about 10 o'clock and continued until after 3:30. Upon his return to the Nell house, where the committee met, after telling Willis and Herrick that he would give way to Morrow, Parmenter called to Durr, who was standing in the doorway of the committee room.

"Come here, Pete!" he said. He took Durr into a nearby room. In less than a minute Durr led the way out into the corridor, exclaiming: "No, I won't." Stopping Durr again at the entrance to the committee room, Parmenter replied: "Then you are going back on the agreement we made at the governor's office."

"No, I didn't," asserted Durr. "It was you," retorted Durr. "You asked for time to talk with your friends. Conditions have reached a pretty mess. You have tried to disrupt the republican party. It is long past time for meeting. We will go in and fight it out."

It was several minutes after this incident occurred, however, before the committee settled down to business. In the meantime George Harris entered the committee room direct from the conference at the governor's office. The committee soon went into executive session. The selection of Morrow was announced 10 minutes later.

O. W. Kerns of Van Wert, a new member, was made temporary chairman. State Banking Superintendent Hall, a hold-over member, was chosen sergeant-at-arms. The only missing member was W. B. Baldwin of Medina. Charles W. Montgomery of Newark, was chosen secretary of the central committee.

PROSPECTS TO BE EXAMINED TODAY

Campaign is Launched by Navy Department in Lima.

The campaign launched by the United States to increase the strength of the navy has been opened in this city by S. McDonald, chief turret captain and William Muench, master-at-arms, first class.

Several prospects are being considered by the two officers and they will likely receive their preliminary examination today, and be sent to Cincinnati for the final test.

S. McDonald, chief turret captain.

Both of the officers are optimistic in regard to the results they expect to achieve from this territory. A careful canvass of the city with hand bills was made yesterday and arrangements were made to send literature to the surrounding towns.

The fact that the navy has not had a representative located in this city for about eight years indicates that the strength of the navy will be materially increased.

SONS OF ERIN WILL RALLY THIS EVENING AT MEMORIAL HALL

From all over Lima, Irishmen and descendants of natives of the Emerald Isle, as well as sympathizers of the little country across the sea, will assemble tonight at Memorial hall, to listen to the interesting program to be given at the mass meeting, arranged by the Ancient Hibernians of Allen county. The object of the meeting is to raise a fund to aid suffering widows and children of those who died in the recent Irish revolt.

The one characteristic of the Irish people is hospitality. If he has but a crust of bread and a cup of tea, in the old country, it is shared with the stranger within his gates. These traits have not been lost to Irishmen in America and in Lima today, those of the same nationality feel for these children and helpless widows. It was for that reason loyal Irish arranged the program for tonight and then sought about to raise money to substantially attest their interest.

Addresses will be delivered by Attorney James J. Weadock and the Hon. James W. Halfhill, both of Lima. Mayor Simpson will extend the welcome. The Rev. Father A. E. Manning, pastor of St. Rose Catholic church and president of the Hibernians in Allen county, will preside.

Music will be furnished by an orchestra of 27 pieces. There will be vocal numbers and readings. The meeting is free and the public is invited. The exercises begin at 8 o'clock.

INSURANCE CO. SUES PLUMBERS

The Allemania Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, asked judgment for $365.59, in a suit filed in court this afternoon against Thomas B. Johns and Orley E. Johns, partners, doing business as T. B. Johns Company.

The policy was issued to C. C. Bauer on October 26, 1914, by the plaintiff, as a protection against fire to a two-story, shingle room frame building, at 533 and 535 West North street, in Lima, for $1,500.

The petition says that the Johns Company, as plumbers, undertook to thaw the frozen pipes and caused the fire. Bauer secured insurance amounting to $109.76, of which the amount the Allemania company was forced to pay $365.59. They therefore ask damages of the Johns Company for this amount.

NEW YORK—A thrill is passing over Broadway. France's wine output 1916 is estimated at 100,000,000 gallons, or double that of 1915.

DEFINITE PLANS FOR WAR ON INFANTILE PLAQUE ARE MADE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Definite action, which it is claimed will greatly aid the organized efforts to wipe out infantile paralysis was taken at today's session of national health experts, including Dr. F. G. Boudreau of the Ohio board of health. Two plans were suggested and thoroughly discussed and will be adopted before the session finally adjourns late today. They are:

1.—Adoption of a uniform health certificate for travelers to be recognized by all of the railroads of the country and so to do away with the confusion resulting from the issuance of certificates by different states and local authorities.

2.—The adoption of a uniform system of certificates to be used by all the states in reporting cases of infantile paralysis.

The latter plan cannot become effective until it has had the approval of the various state authorities. The states control the rules of travel on lines wholly within their borders while the federal public health service has jurisdiction over interstate travel. The plan there is to devise a health certificate, which in addition to meeting the approval of the federal health service, also will have the sanction of the several state authorities. At the conference a number of railroad representatives have complained of the lack of uniformity of certificates, because of certain certificates issued in one state have been declared unsatisfactory by health authorities in an adjoining state, causing, in many instances the forcible removal of children from trains to the inconvenience alike of parents and railroad authorities.

A discussion of the general principle of control again emphasized the difficulty of dealing with the disease due to obscurity as to its origin and spread. It was emphasized that the states of New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine, which have thousands of summer visitors from New York including many children, are practically free of the disease, and of the few cases in Maine and New Hampshire, not one is that of a New York child or in any way traceable to New York.

The importance of a rigid quarantine of all cases also was dwelt upon. The different states have different laws on this subject and in this respect an effort will be made to bring about more uniform regulations.

As a result of the historical celebration at Fort Amanda Wednesday, a movement has been set on foot to have the grounds around where the old fort stood made into a national park. To do this will require an appropriation of $50,000. A handsome stone building would be erected upon this plan, to house all gatherings that might be held there.

A Fort Amanda highway is part of the plans proposed. This would begin at Van Wert, connecting there with the Lincoln highway and Fort Wayne highway. From Van Wert the roadway would be continued to Spencerville, thence into Lima, past the historic grounds at Fort Amanda, here merging into the Dixie and Lincoln highways, thence proceeding on to Kenton and Marion. Part of this route is now in an improved state.

PARMENTER SPENDS $409 TO RETAIN HIS PLACE ON COMMITTEE

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—Secretary of War Baker's pre-primary election expense account, received today by Secretary of State Hildebrandt, shows that he received and spent nothing to be re-elected member of the democratic state central committee. State Fire Marshal Buckley, of Dayton, received $300 from A. M. Major, and spent $456 to obtain re-election as a member of the republican state central committee. W. L. Parmenter, of Lima, retiring chairman of the republican state central committee, spent $409 in his campaign for re-election as committeeman.

J. G. Peterson, of Zanesville, candidate for democratic state central committeeman, spent nothing. Wm. M. Miller, of Dresden, republican candidate for state senator, spent $822.

Chas. W. Dustin, of Dayton, candidate for congress, spent $1,086. Frederick W. Howell, of Dayton, republican candidate for state senator, received nothing and spent $152. H. A. Sullivan, of Akron, candidate for state senator, spent $381. John H. Clark, of Marion, republican candidate for congress, spent $295. Edwin Jones, of Jackson, retiring chairman of the republican state executive committee, spent $441 to be re-elected as committeeman. E. J. Kauffman, treasurer Pomeroy Booster club, Canton, spent $1,644.

Kathleen Brinkman, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brinkman, of East Fourth street, died at the city hospital yesterday afternoon, where she was removed for an operation in the morning, for appendicitis. For three days she had been ill. She was born in Cridersville on November 23, 1905.

CLIENT PAYS BOARD BILL FOR ATTORNEY

Through the aid of his wife, William W. Sutton, attorney, practicing at the Lima bar, was released when arraigned yesterday in mayor's court at Wapakoneta, charged with attempting to defeat the Hotel Steinberg of a board bill. Robert Martin, who Sutton defended, which made necessary his trip to Wapakoneta and the hotel bill, paid the amount and costs, at the earnest solicitation of Sutton's wife. The amount was for $43.45 and there was $8 costs on the prosecution. The affidavit was filed on June 14 of this year.

While working on the case of Robert Martin, of north of Wapakoneta, according to the statement of Sutton, it was necessary for him to stop for a time in Wapakoneta. Martin was to settle the board bill, Sutton says, which he refused to do at the time of Sutton's leaving.

An affidavit was sworn out against Sutton and when Sutton was located Chief of Police May want to Lima and brought him to Wapakoneta. Sutton defended Martin in a case in the courts at Bellefontaine. Martin is a dry detective.

Sutton and Martin left for Columbus on legal business after the case was heard in court and Mrs. Sutton returned to her home in Lima.

START MOVE TO MAKE FT. AMANDA NATIONAL PARK

As a result of the historical celebration at Fort Amanda Wednesday, a movement has been set on foot to have the grounds around where the old fort stood made into a national park. To do this will require an appropriation of $50,000. A handsome stone building would be erected upon this plan, to house all gatherings that might be held there.

A Fort Amanda highway is part of the plans proposed. This would begin at Van Wert, connecting there with the Lincoln highway and Fort Wayne highway. From Van Wert the roadway would be continued to Spencerville, thence into Lima, past the historic grounds at Fort Amanda, here merging into the Dixie and Lincoln highways, thence proceeding on to Kenton and Marion. Part of this route is now in an improved state.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—Secretary of War Baker's pre-primary election expense account, received today by Secretary of State Hildebrandt, shows that he received and spent nothing to be re-elected member of the democratic state central committee. CANTON, O., Aug. 18.—One woman was fatally injured and nine other persons were slightly hurt, when a motor truck en route with a party of ten persons from Cuyahoga Falls to a death bed in Glen Easton, W. Va., crashed into the big tree which stands in the center of Market road several miles north of here Thursday night at 11 o'clock. The injured were rushed to Mercy hospital in an auto.

The dead: Mrs. O. L. Harris, 48, Glen Easton, W. Va.

Mrs. Harris died in the hospital an hour after the accident. It is believed she had suffered a fracture of the skull.

MINOR INSTITUTES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Because he is a minor, 19 years old, Lewis Augsburg, by father, as his next friend, yesterday afternoon instituted suit for divorce for Elmer Augsburg against Ethel Augsburg. The petition says the couple were married at Monroe, Michigan, in October, 1915, without the consent of either of his parents and that Ethel solicited Elmer to marry. She was then of age.

They lived at Beaverdam until January 1 of this year, when they came to Lima to room and board with a sister of Augsburg at 506 South Elizabeth street.

Augsburg says she remained at the home of her parents in Beaverdam for several days each week, neglected her duties and falsely accused him of striking, abusing and mistreating her, spreading these false stories, he says, to her relatives.

The last of March of this year, the petition states, she and her father packed her clothes and she abandoned Augsburg. He says he spent $150 while they were living together.

After being held in the county jail for some days, the parents signed the bond which freed Augsburg. Failure to provide this support will land Augsburg back in jail. The bond was for $500 and was signed by mother and father.

POTTED KALE PLANT SHELTERS NESTS

The semitropical climate of Long Beach, Calif., and the patience and skill of a police officer in that town have combined to produce a California kale plant that has grown to a height of 7 ft. 2 in within a period of 10 months. Much of the woody stalk has been stripped of its leaves, leaving a rounded mass of foliage at the top, so that the plant looks like perennial shrubbery. Two linnet's nests, in each of which there are eggs, are hidden among the leaves.—From the September Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS ARE CHANGED AGAIN

New Arrangement to Save $900 Annually for County.

At a meeting of the county board of education in the office of Superintendent C. A. Arganbright, this morning, the supervising districts were rearranged. The superintendents of each district and territory governed was changed with the exception of district No. 1.

Arganbright stated this morning that the change would mean the saving of $900 to the county board. In addition to this, it is believed that the new arrangement will assist in bringing the efficiency of the schools to a higher standard.

Under the new system of districts, there will be only four superintendents in charge, instead of five as formerly. The action was decided following the resignation of H. E. Bice of district No. 5. Each superintendent will have charge of 10 more teachers than the year ago.

The districts, and the territory with the exception of No. 1 are: No. 2, Jackson, Lafayette, West Minister, Angalia, Perry and Perry special; No. 3, Shawnee, German, Bath, Munroe and West Cairo, and No. 4, Elida, Sugar Creek, Marion, Spencer, Landeck, Amanda and Amanga special.

The district superintendents are: No. 1, C. C. Nardin; No. 2, C. M. McCleary; No. 3, I. W. Byerly, and No. 4, E. E. Leidy.

MRS. METZGER'S FUNERAL

Many friends from Delphos, where Mrs. Ella Metzger's husband was well known, attended the solemn mass, celebrated this morning at 8 o'clock, at St. John's Catholic church, over the body of the devoted wife and mother. The Rev. Father Alton, assistant pastor, chanted the mass. The body was laid to rest in Gethsemani. The husband, Henry J. Metzger, two small children and the mother are close relatives left.

TEN-DOLLAR BUFFALO ROBE IS NOW WORTH LARGE SUM.

One of the changes incident to the settling up of the great western plains and the consequent killing of many roaming herds of buffalo has been the great increase in the price of buffalo robes. A patron of a large mail-order house located in the central west, recently visited it bringing with him a huge buffalo robe which he purchased from the house 38 years ago for $10. Needless to say such robes are not sold by mail-order concerns today.—From the September Popular Mechanics Magazine.

CONCRETE TANK SUPPORTED BY SLENDER STEM

A reinforced-concrete water tower of unusual design is now in use in Bay Minnette, Minn. The structure stands 80 feet high; a cylindrical concrete tank of 45,000 gallons capacity is supported by a slender stem made by surrounding the vertical feed pipe with walls of concrete, these walls are thicker at the base than at the top, giving the stem a graceful tapered shape. The walls of the tank are only 6 inches thick.—From the September Popular Mechanics Magazine.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The most serious freight car shortage in the history of the United States is indicated in the August 1 car statistics. The lowest surplus at this time of year was 27,837 in 1907, and in only three years has the figure been below 100,000 until this year, when the estimates indicate there will be only 10,000 net surplus over actual demands.

HUGE BOND ISSUE FOR U. S. WANTED

Senate Finance Committeemen Ask $130,000,000
for Extra Bills.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A bond issue of $130,000,000 to meet extraordinary government expenditures due to the Mexican situation, was unexpectedly recommended to congress last night by majority members of the senate finance committee, with the concurrence of the treasury department.

The bond issue is urged in the report of the finance committee democrats, filed in the senate late yesterday on the $205,000,000 revenue bill.

In addition to the proposed issue and the revenue bill, the finance committee asserts that further appropriation of $86,000,000 will be necessary to defray the expense of operations in the Mexican emergency if conditions on the border continue as they are now after December 31, 1916.

The $130,000,000 to be provided by the proposed bond issue, the report says, will meet Mexican expenditures only, until the end of this calendar year.

Accompanying the finance committee majority's report, submitted by Senator Simmons, was a general statement from the treasury department, estimating disbursements for the fiscal year 1917 at $1,126,243,000 and receipts $762,000,000.

"The total appropriations for the fiscal year 1917, exclusive of these carried in the so-called shipping bill, which is to be defrayed by the issuance of Panama bonds, will exceed the appropriations for the fiscal year 1916 by about $469,000,000," says the report.

"This increase is represented principally by $167,900,000 additional amount appropriated for the navy, $166,000,000 additional amount appropriated for the army, $20,000,000 additional amount appropriated for fortifications, $41,000,000 for deficiency appropriations—about $35,000,000 of which is due to the Mexican situation and increased requirements of the army and navy—and $20,000,000 for a nitrate plant, which is a preparedness appropriation.

The increase in the appropriations for the fiscal year, other than for these extraordinary purposes, is not beyond the normal increase.

"But for the additional expenditures made necessary to defray the cost of preparedness, the increased revenue to be raised by this bill would not be necessary, and the estimated receipts under the present law would be considerably in excess of the estimated disbursements for the fiscal year 1917.

"In this connection, attention is called to the fact that $21,000,000 of the normal increase for the present fiscal year, represents the amount appropriated for rural credits and good roads."

STUDENTS ARE EXEMPT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Students who are members of the state militia will not be required to go to the border, except when their release from service would disturb the organizations to which they belong. The war department, according to General H. P. SEIZE BEAUTIFUL SPY AT AMERICAN BALL

GENEVA, Aug. 18.—Two dramatic incidents marked the great ball and concert given by the American colony in Lausanne on behalf of the fund for the allied prisoners of war and the invalided Swiss soldiers.

The incident created a great sensation, as the prisoner has been for some time a popular and prominent figure in the east society in Switzerland.

The second sensation occurred shortly before midnight, when Herr Schmidt, formerly Austrian consul at Lausanne, and a director of the place hotel, made insulting references to the allies, and was promptly knocked down by a well-known Swiss resident. The manager of the casino summoned the gendarmes, and both Herr Schmidt and his assailant were arrested.

"DEEDS, NOT WORDS"

Mr. Hughes, in his Chicago speech, cried aloud with strident voice for "deeds not words". Filled with only words himself, with deeds contingent entirely upon his election, he shrieked his defiance at the candidate of the Democratic party. The latter is in no way appalled.

A record of deeds during the three and a half years of his incumbency, there is to President Wilson's credit what has never been approached by any other administration since the government's formation. They are deeds of worth, of value to the country, deeds that have made, are making and will continue to make for the country's weal. Not one of them does the Republican candidate refer to. He chooses rather to be disturbed by peccadilloes, and those more of the imagination, or fancy, than of reality.

Deeds! Get down to cases, if you please.

Here are some deeds that Republicans are at entire liberty to discuss:

The rural credits act, which permits the farmer the same access to credit facilities that is enjoyed by the other elements of our citizenship.

The income tax law.

The federal reserve act, which measures up to the Progressive requirement for "the issue of currency as a governmental function under a system whose control should be lodged with the government and should be protected from domination or manipulation by Wall Street or by any special interest."

The good roads law, which extends federal aid to road building.

The trade commission law, which fully satisfied the Progressive demand for a "strong federal administrative commission of high standing that shall maintain permanent, active supervision over industrial corporations engaged in interstate commerce."

An eight-hour law applying to work done for the government as well as work done by the government.

An eight-hour law applying to female employees in the District of Columbia, over which congress has jurisdiction.

An eight-hour provision for post office clerks and carriers.

An eight-hour provision applicable to civilians engaged in the manufacture of ordnance and powder for the government.

An eight-hour provision as to the mining of all coal to be used by the navy.

The children's bureau law to promote the care of children and provide means preventive of the neglect of parents regarding development of the child.

Investigate the entire subject of industrial relations.

The phosphorus match law to protect the health of workers in the match industry.

The Clayton anti-trust act, embracing the regulation of the issuance of injunctions.

The department of labor law, creating a department with a secretary, who shall be a member of the president's cabinet.

The Smith-Lever agricultural education law, which responds to the Progressive demand for measures be taken to lift "the mass load of illiteracy from the American youth" by "encouraging agricultural education and domestic schools."

The corrupt elections practices act.

Measures abolishing the commerce court and authorizing the interstate commerce commission to make a physical valuation of railroads.

The Sherwood pension bill, which must meet the Progressive idea of a "wise and just policy of pensioning American soldiers and sailors and their widows and children."

The parcel post law.

Add to them, the passage by the senate of the child labor law, the appropriations for building up the army and navy into proportions of most adequate preparedness, and there is a story of deeds which must appeal even to the opposition.

But it is not in deeds alone that President Wilson has served his country. In words, too, has he made good. With words, he has held his own in every contest with foreign chancelleries and with words has kept this country out of war, and with honor.

His state papers have been models of tact and diplomacy, and future generations will point to them with ever growing pride.

In every way, both by words and deeds, the Democratic administration has proven its efficiency and established a record of vast accomplishment.

REPUBLICANS AND INCOME TAX

Republicans in the house and senate have urged the Democratic administration to lower the rate of exemption of the income tax so that this tax will be levied upon persons earning anything over $2,000 a year. The theory of the Democratic party is that those earning barely enough for their normal expenses should be exempted from the income tax. The income tax merely applies to those who can well afford to give such support to the government.

Believing that the sole purpose of the Republican critics was to force taxation upon those least able to bear it, Claude Kitchin, the Democratic leader of the house, recently made a careful estimate and found that the extension of the income tax, as proposed by the Republicans, while hitting a wide circle of hard-working men and women, nevertheless would add only $8,000,000 additional to the revenue of the government. The majority leaders have refused and will continue to refuse to tax the smaller salaries.

Probably no one wholly relishes the idea of paying taxes. But what would the Republicans do if they were returned to power? Would they abolish the income tax, which three-fourths of the states ratified as an amendment to the constitution?

Representative Fess of Ohio, is one of the Republican spokesmen in the house. In the course of a debate on the income tax on July 21, he was asked bluntly whether the Republicans would repeal the income tax if they came back to power. He said they would repeal the present law and write a new one. He said he would place the tax on income between $1,500 and $2,000. He believed that a $1,000 or $1,500 exemption would be sufficient.

No single man earning less than $38 a week now pays any income tax. No married man earning less than $75 pays any income tax. If the Republicans are returned to power, Mr. Fess says they will make every man earning around $35 a week pay an income tax.

REMINISCENSES 61-5

By N. C. A. Rayhouser

On the 24th of June, 1863, the troops under Gen. Rosecrans, who commanded the department of the Cumberland, left Murfreesboro and proceeded to Chattanooga. Gen. A. G. Garland was chief of staff and Gen. Gordon Granger was in command of the reserve corps.

On the 19th, the battle of Lookout Mountain opened and after two days of furious fighting and a loss of 16,178 men, a part of the army withdrew to Knoxville. Chattanooga, a strong strategic point, was the prize for which both armies contended.

For a time the Union forces were besieged by Bragg and Longstreet. In the following October Grant, who was ordered to take command, arrived, and forced Bragg to retreat. In a dispatch to Gen. Thomas, Grant ordered him to hold his position at all hazards. The men were on quarter rations and but one source of obtaining them was available. This was rendered more difficult by the meager facilities for transportation.

Gen. Grant had planned to turn Bragg's right, but the shrewd Confederate commander fearing, an attack by the reinforced blue army, concluded that "discretion was the better part of valor" and prepared to retire. Grant had ordered the attack on Bragg as soon as he learned of his movement and selected the men under his immediate command at Vicksburg to lead the charge, saying that "the army of the Cumberland was so demoralized that it could not be dragged out of the trenches."

Gen. Thomas' veterans were exceedingly sore at this harshly expressed opinion of their services, and they had a right to be, for it was the army of the Cumberland that saved Chattanooga, the gateway of the route to be, and made it possible for Gen. Sherman to prevent the Confederate forces of Lee and Johnston from forming a junction. But when the hour came to get after the little old army of the Cumberland led the advance.

Colonel Henry Waterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, had a little printing outfit and an army press upon which he printed a paper called "The Little Rebel." It was a very small affair. After the Union forces had taken possession of Chattanooga my tent was located near the large brick buildings which he occupied during the Confederate investment. A shell or shot had torn a hole in a corner. I collected as many of the loose bricks as I needed to construct a fireplace and chimney in my tent. During my stay I enjoyed the rest it afforded as well as its comfort.

Col. Waterson was invited to address the Indiana Editorial association, of which I was a charter member, and referring to his Little Rebel I told him of the use I made of part of the material in the building in which it was printed. He enjoyed recalling many of the incidents of the war.

HECHINGEN.

Hechingen is a little German town that few Americans visited even before the first of August, 1914, but it is safe to say that all of those who have been there are wondering how the tiny city is faring in these troublous times. And this though there was never much in the nature of spectacular attraction in Hechingen—nothing but the old Castle Hohenzollern, the ancestral stronghold of a well-known German family that is playing a rather prominent part in the drama of nations at present.

The old castle is built of a rich brown stone that takes on an unreal and tenuous quality in the level light of morning and evening. Perched on a steep round-topped hill overlooking Hechingen, at such moments it seems to lose touch with earth and reality and float in the wavering air like one of the fairy palaces of German legend. It does not suggest the Imperial family of modern Germany, somehow. It belongs to a simpler age, when the little noble in his hundreds ruled the land and the emperor was only a name.

Opposite the castle, Hechingen clings to the hillside, a cluster of white houses with red-tiled roofs. The slope grows steeper as it rises, the houses cling more precariously, until finally they end with the highest of all, the parish church, whose tower looks down benignly on the town at its feet. There are many Hohenzollerns buried in that church within a few yards of the lesser and nameless dead.

The people of Hechingen are a quiet and rather stolid race. They go about their business and their devotions—for they are deeply religious—quite without bustle and fuss. Even their public market, held weekly in the square by the church, was never a scene of lively chatter, such as is afforded by almost any market place in the world. Yet in their silent way they are a kindly and a hospitable people, and any tourist who visited their village would pause to hope that not too many of the men of Hechingen are lying before Verdun.

MAGNETS COUPLE CARS. In Bern, Switzerland, powerful electric magnets are used in switching and coupling cars, thereby eliminating the hand coupling which costs many lives annually. The state railroad has installed a powerful storage battery, which furnishes the power for operating the switches and also for energizing the magnets. A magnet is placed at each of the four corners of a locomotive. These magnets are in cylinder form with ends facing outward. After an engine has drawn up a car

it may be coupled by feeding current to the magnets. Throwing out a switch uncouples the car. Each magnet is capable of a pull of 3740 pounds.

Cure for Cholera Morbus. "When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." PARIS, Aug. 18.—While the president and Mme. Poincare were taking an after-dinner stroll in the gardens of the Elysees the president was summoned to read some despatches that had just come from the front. He had hardly reached his study when he heard screams from the garden, and rushing back, accompanied by his secretaries, the president learned from Mme. Poincare that the moment he left her she had been attacked by a "strange being." While an inquiry was being made, Dr. Henri de Rothschild, who lives a few doors away from the Elysees, arrived on the scene and explained that an ape which had been sent him had escaped from its cage and had been seen climbing over several garden walls in the direction of the Elysees.

The ape was found in a tree, out it was not until a Hindu attendant had been summoned that the animal could be induced to come down.

SWIMMERS TO RACE OVER 10-MILE COURSE. BOSTON, Aug. 18.—At 6 o'clock tomorrow morning Charles Toth, of the L. St. Swimming Club and Harry Sullivan of Lowell will enter the water in their attempt to swim about 40 miles from Race Point, Provincetown to Tarpocket Beach.

This is considered the most difficult swimming feat ever attempted and few believe either of the men will finish. The course certainly cannot be completed in less than 24 hours.

The swimmers will have to buck at least seven currents and pass through four chances of tide, while the ocean water is sure to be cold in spots.

Miss Kathleen Brinkman was removed to the City hospital this forenoon in the Eckert invalid coach. She will be subjected to an operation for appendicitis.

It may be coupled by feeding current to the magnets. Throwing out a switch uncouples the car. Each magnet is capable of a pull of 3740 pounds.

When, for any reason, the liver fails to perform its natural function, the bile tubes become clogged and the bile (Nature's only laxative) does not flow freely into the bowels, but is forced back into the system.

That is the reason you are constipated and awaken with a bitous headache, heartburn, gas pains, bad taste in the mouth and other bilious symptoms.

Calomel and other strong drugs bring only temporary relief, besides they frequently salivate or upset the stomach.

You should use a more normal, easy way of correcting the trouble. Give your liver a Tollo Water liver bath. This famous water is found at Dawson Springs, the Kentucky health resort. The effect is to dissolve the obstructions in the bile ducts, cleanse, purify and re-energize the liver.

You can prove its benefits for yourself in thirty minutes, for, although its action is natural and pleasant, it is also quick.

NEW TEST IN WAR ON DIPHTHERIA.

The laboratories have put into the hands of physicians a new and effective weapon to use in the war against preventable disease. This is the Shick test for diphtheria. It is a simple, safe test, the result of research work by Prof. Shick of Vienna, which shows whether a given person has diphtheria or not.

Through its use physicians are reasonably certain that 80 per cent of the new born, 50 to 60 of children and 50 per cent of adults are naturally immune from diphtheria.

This throws new light upon the spread of the disease and explains why only certain persons take diphtheria even when exposed to it. This test will show whether a person has sufficient antitoxin in his blood to overcome an infection with diphtheria germs.

Some of the other uses of the Shick test are as follows:

It will enable the physician to make a correct diagnosis of membranous of the throat which he has reason to suspect are infected.

It will enable doctors to separate the susceptible from the non-susceptible persons who have been exposed to diphtheria.

This will enable the doctors to administer diphtheria antitoxin only to those who actually need it.

It will prevent the accidents due to serum sickness for doctors can now determine by the use of this test whether a larger amount of antitoxin serum would have any beneficial effects.

WORK TO PLAY

"O H, I loathe to iron, darn, sweep, mend, cook, really
anything about house work. I really was made to be a business woman. Why not let men do the work of a house if they think it so necessary. Nothing but custom and tradition keeps them from doing it anyway."

Thus spoke a friend of mine not long ago, when I had to hurry home with her in order that she might be on time to get dinner.

"Besides," she added with determination, "I don't like it."

Alas for tradition and custom.
Methinks they will outweigh personal likes and dislikes most any time.
When we finally arrived at the charming home of my friend she still was protesting about her sad
lot, her aunt, one of the loveliest old ladies I have ever met, gave her a little lecture which is well worth repeating.

"But what if you don't like to iron dresses or darn, or cook, or sew, or sweep? You ought to. Otherwise you are deliberately committing the selfishness of thrusting unpleasant tasks at other people. If you consider mending altogether irksome
and uninteresting, how can you bear to sentence your mother or a servant to vicarious tedium? And how can you live in a social organization which lumps quantities of your so-called unpleasant tasks into the lives of servants, acquiescing by your deeds in this distribution of activity? For the person whose machinery of living, whose meals, clothes and housekeeping are the products of the labors of others,
does acquiesce in this distribution of activity; and if she considers the work done for her by others stupid
and, to the doer, unprofitable work,
she has no right so to arrange it.
The only loophole of excuse for my delegation of mending to my grandmother is my own lack of time, and if I regard mending as particularly unpleasant or tiresome, even that excuse, an inexact claim with most us,
is outweighed."

"If I did not like these humble labors, I should try to cultivate the taste, for most of us are much better supplied with mental facilities
for liking things than is the average servant who must spend all her days over them. I will not admit that I cannot see anything in simple forms of labor; for by that admission I should prove either my own intellectual inferiority to the uneducated servant who practices them, or to the utter emptiness of her professional life, which the habits of my caste have forced upon her."

"Although some of us have a way of disregarding the distribution of activity, I am sure that many people know the real pleasure in tasks
which they must in greater part consign to others. We all wish that we might express through many mediums, with an instinctive grasp of diverse techniques, the ideal within us. We can approach no closer to it than in varied practice of handicraft, in the relief of one form of expression by another, that turns
work to play."

What Do You Wish to Be?

By Beatrice Fairfax

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those
who care;
I would be strong, for there is much
to suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much
to bear.

I would be friend of all—the foe,
the friendless;
I would be giving and forget the gift;

I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up—and laugh—and love—and lift.

It is a human tendency to be very critical of every one and everything except one's self. It is fairly natural to set a mark and a goal and a series of ideals, by which to measure other people. But to have personal ideals ought to be as general
and instinctive—and is not.

However, more and more the world is getting a social and a personal credo. I know it embodied in the little verse I have given you today. It expresses many of the things one ought to be.

One must cultivate truth in one's nature—and honesty and loyalty to those who trust and to one's self,
too.

All of us owe it to ourselves to be big and fine and splendid—and owe it, too, to those who could be hurt by our failing to be our best selves.

One does not live to one's self alone. Failure and defeat hurt each of us as an individual—but they hurt also those who care for us.

Truth, purity, strength and bravery are a wonderful armor with which to gird one's soul against anything that may assail. They are qualities any of us may seek—
and in seeking find.

The soul that meets the world
with friendships and generosity and that is humble and free from the vice of intolerance has a sweet lov-
ableness to add to its strength.
Friendship and admiration come to it and because it merits love, love
is given to it.

To look up means to be an optimist rather than a pessimist—if means to cultivate a fine sense outlook on life. To laugh in the face of difficulty means to rise above
cowardice and whimpering.

To live is one of the finest gifts
one can offer the world. It does not mean smugly reading other people's sermons and telling them
how to regulate their lives, but it does mean keeping your own life
so sweet and fine that its influence
will be for good and never for evil.
It means avoiding in yourself an example that might degrade. It means in all and humbleness making your life a beacon for all who would behold it.

Learn my little verse—and in its spirit of love evolve for yourself
an ideal of the sort of person you want to be.

MORE TOMATO DISHES.

Baked Tomatoes.
Choose small, ripe, well-shaped tomatoes. Cut off the blossom end, scoop out the pulp carefully,
sprinkle the inside of the shell with salt, and drain for a few moments upside down. Cover bottom of shell with a tablespoonful of seasoned bread crumbs, break into this a fresh egg, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and place in a hot oven until the egg is set. In another dish, bake a mixture made of the tomato pulp, one beaten egg, some chopped celery, and bread crumbs. Season with pepper, butter and salt, and,
just before serving, lay a spoonful
on top of the baked egg.

Broiled Tomatoes.
Slice large fresh tomatoes,
sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in bread crumbs, spread with butter,
and broil. Serve immediately.

Tomatoes a la Verrey.
Take some raw, ripe tomatoes,
slice them very thinly and season
them with a little salad oil and tarragon vinegar; place a-slice on a little plate, first cutting it through into four pieces.

Tomatoes Lyonnaise.
Peel half a dozen firm tomatoes and cut into eighths. Peel and chop rather coarsely two Bermuda

onions, or use one small Spanish onion. Put the latter in a frying pan with one large tablespoonful of butter, and cook very slowly, stirring occasionally, until the onion begins to change color. Add the tomatoes and a high seasoning of salt
and pepper; draw the pan forward,
and cook more rapidly for about 20 minutes, or until the tomatoes are quite tender. Add a half-cupful of strong beef stock, and simmer for five minutes longer. Sprinkle in one tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley, and turn into a serving dish.

Tomatoes Portogaise.
Peel and thinly slice two mild onions. Peel and cut into quarters a quart of small, firm tomatoes.
Put together in a saucepan, cover,
and cook slowly for 20 minutes,
shaking occasionally to prevent sticking. Add one point of thickened beef gravy and a high seasoning of salt and pepper. Cook 15 minutes longer, add one point of hot boiled rice, stir carefully for a moment, and send to the table with an extra bowl of the gravy.

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ethel's Absence Begins to Arouse Suspicion in Fairport.
"GAYLORD, there is something mysterious about
Mrs. Gordon's absence."
The doctor looked up politely from his paper, keeping the tail of his eye on the paragraph he was reading. "No one knew she was going and now
Ralph's mother is here taking care of the house and not
a word is said
about why she is gone or anything."

"Let me see,"
began the doctor,
with an amused
smile on his face.
"Is this the young woman who is so
opposed to gossip;
who deplored the fact that small towns furnish
nothing to occupy
the mind except the affairs of the neighbors?"

"I suppose you think I furnish a notable example of what I deplored,
I guess I do. At any rate I am very much interested in the outcome of this unsuitable marriage." Olive sat down on the arm of her husband's chair.

"What is there about the fact that Mrs. Gordon is gone and the young man's mother is here taking care of her son to make you worry about their prospects?" laughed her husband.

"Do not be absurd, Gaylord. You have seen Ethel Gordon and you know how unsuited she is to make any man happy." Olive ran her hands through her husband's thinning hair.

"Fortunately, what would make one man miserable will make another happy. Probably young Gordon chose the kind of a woman that he like and I see no cause to worry about their affairs, especially on a surmise. When they take you into their confidence pour out your sympathy if it is needed." The doctor pinched his wife's ear.

"I am going over to call on the mother anyway. It is a shame to have her first visit to Fairport under such conditions."

"Have them over to tea, why don't you?" I like the young fellow immensely, and if your gloomy forbod-ings are true the more festivities the better, I should say."

"Bright idea!" Olive patted her husband's head. "I'll go over today
and invite them."

When Olive rang the bell at the Gordon's the mother appeared and invited her in. She was plump and cheery and the two were soon chatting comfortably together.

"I came for a surprise visit and was myself surprised. I had no idea that Ethel was away. When I found Ralph alone I decided to stay and keep house for him till she returned.
It seems quite like old times to have him coming home to his meals. How soon our children grow away from us," she added, holding out her hand to little Marjory who was seriously regarding the smiling stranger from the safe distance of her mother's knee.

"You must get acquainted with Mrs. Gordon, dear, for we are going to ask her to come over to our house
to dinner tomorrow night."

"How kind of you, Ralph has said
much about the friendly hospitality
of the Fairport people, and I was regretting that Ethel's absence was going to deprive me of the pleasure of meeting them." There was real happiness in Mrs. Gordon's tone.

"We are kind to ourselves. We like your son very much and when I like a young man I always want to know his mother. I shall ask a few of the choice Fairport people to meet you. We have a very enjoyable little circle here," said Olive as she rose to go. "Tell your son we shall have dinner at six."

BIRD STAYS BY NEST

IN REAT BOMBARDMENT.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—A British
staff officer writes:

"A blackbird's nest with three young birds in it was found in the ruins of a village which had been captured by us some days previous."

"This particular village is situated practically right on the old German front line, and thus the old bird must have sat on its nest during the whole of the preliminary bombardment and the subsequent terrific fighting. Everything around the nest was smashed to atoms."

Japan Is Main Supply Source of Goods For Russian Army

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The extent to which Japan is clothing, shoeing, and equipping the Russian army was forcibly presented to a military observer who has just returned from a trip along the Russian front.

"I was astonished," he said, "to find great numbers of Russian soldiers clothed from head to foot in uniforms made in Japan, not only the tunic and trousers, but even the leggings. They carried on their shoulders Japanese guns. Their cartridge belts were filled with cartridges made in Japan. Their leather belts and buckles were from Japan and the stout hobnail shoes they wear are from hides gathered in Korea and made into shoes in Japan. So that there you see a Russian soldier in Japanese clothes, Japanese shoes, with Japanese gun, Japanese ammunition and Japanese accoutrement.

"It is strange," he went on, "that Russia went to war with Japan over Korea, and now Korea, the source of all the trouble, is supplying Russia with shoes in which her troops are marching to victory. Korea is a great grazing country and is providing a vast reservoir of raw hides which the Japanese are rapidly turning into boots, shoes, saddles and leather furnishings."

"How did these supplies get from Japan to the Russian front?" the observer was asked.

"It was noted," said he, "that about the only vital point where the Germans had not been able to send their submarines was in the waters of the East China Sea, the Straits of Korea, and the Sea of Japan. These are the waters separating Japan from Russia and the Asiatic mainland, and the routes over them, commercial and military, are open and without menace."

"What sort of arms and munition is Russia getting from Japan?" was asked.

"All sorts," was the reply, "from the service rifle and small field pieces to the big 12-inch guns."

"The Japanese 12-inch is a terrible weapon, and they are content not to make any of the 14-inch and 16-inch, as they consider from a military standpoint that the immobility of the monster gun offsets its advantages, whereas the 12-inch is a mobile gun and very deadly."

"It is said French and Japanese officers are now furnishing the expert direction of the Russian artillery fire which has made it so effective. Did you see any of these officers?" was asked.

"No, and the report is not correct," said the observer. "The Russian artillery officers are directing their own fire, and are getting splendid results. The only Japanese and French officers are those temporarily assigned to explain the workings of a new piece, just as an expert in sent along to explain any complicated piece of machinery. Japanese experts accompanied the big 12-inch Japanese guns, not to maneuver them in action, but to explain how they were to be maneuvered."

MAN AND WIFE ARE HELD FOR MURDER

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—Rosario Spino and wife today are held without bond on a charge of murdering Sam Verzi, 38, a boarder, in bed. Verzi was thought to be a suicide when his body was discovered Saturday, a revolver clutched in the right hand.

Coroner Byran, wondering how Verzi could have fired two fatal shots into his body, one in his temple and the other in his heart, had Salvatore Masnize, brother of the woman, arrested. Police say Masnize related that the husband fired one shot and the wife the other after the woman confessed improper relations with Verzi. She is about to become a mother.

OLD GAME WORKS IN A NEW FORM

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—A pretty girl, who lures men to her luxurious limousine, there to be robbed by a male accomplice, is the latest addition to the criminals bothering Cleveland police.

Carl Angelo met her last night. She timidly approached him and requested that he escort her to her machine containing her husband, which was standing, with the engine noiselessly running, in front of a downtown office building. Her beauty and the aroma of a delicate perfume appealed to Angelo's gentlemanly instincts. He complied.

The "husband" was profuse in his thanks and invited Angelo to take a ride. The ride lasted until the "husband" had Angelo's pocketbook, containing $5.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 18.—John D. Rockefeller is expected by members of the East End Baptist church, which was ruined by fire last night, to provide the funds for the erection of a new edifice. He frequently attended the services. The church cost $125,000 and the insurance was only $60,000.

BRITAIN TO DEPRIVE DUKES OF TITLES

Three English Lords Now Fighting Against King George.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Three British-born princes who have become enemies of this nation are at last to be deprived of their titles, rank, and precedence in this country: The Duke of Cumberland and Teviotdale, who is also Earl of Argyll; The Duke of Albany (Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha), G. C. V. O., who is also Earl of Clarence and Baron Arklow; Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, son of Prince Christian.

Strong feeling has been expressed here for many months past that such action should be taken. The Duke of Cumberland was struck off the Garter roll a year ago, and deprived of his position as a British general, while the Duke of Albany was also struck off the Garter roll and deprived of a colonelcy. The question of the three princes' position was again raised by Swift MacNeill in the house of commons and the prime minister was able to announce that further steps had been decided upon.

"The cabinet have had this matter under consideration," said Mr. Asquith, "and are in full sympathy with the feeling of the house on the subject. His majesty will be asked to take the necessary steps in regard to titles and orders. Technical questions of law are being considered by the lord chancellor."

The Duke of Cumberland is a grandson of the fifth son of George III, who became king of Hanover on the death of William IV., and son of the last king of Hanover, who was dethroned for siding with Austria against Prussia. He was born in this country in 1845, and married Princess Tyra of Denmark, a sister of Queen Alexandra. His son, the Duke of Brunswick, is married to the Kaiser's only daughter. The Duke of Cumberland has been twice under restraint, and, like his son, is said to have been driven mad by the war.

The Duke of Albany, who is fighting against Great Britain was born in 1884 at Claremont, where his mother, the Duchess of Albany, still resides. His father was a son of Queen Victoria. He succeeded his uncle, the Duke of Edinburgh, as Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha in 1900. His sister married Prince Alexander of Teck.

Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, who is fighting in Germany, is also a grandson of Queen Victoria. Before the war he was a prominent figure in London. He is the ultimate heir to the titles and estates of the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein-Augustenburg. His brother, Prince Christian Victor, died in the South African war.

LEADING FRENCHMAN
FEARS EXTINCTION
OF ENTIRE NATION

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 18.—The Paris correspondent of the "Maasbode" writes:

"The precious blood of the manhood of France flows in streams incessantly and the sacrifices in lives are staggering. The small territory around Verdun is the grave of hundreds of thousands of heroic French soldiers."

"France is less able than any other nation to bear these continuous fearful losses, because the population of the republic steadily decreases even in normal times. One need not be a statistician to understand that the killing and maiming of innumerable men destroys the vitality of the French. The losses of the other belligerent countries will be replaced sooner or later by the large number of births, but in France this cannot be expected. All the wonderful heroism of the French army will have been in vain, if a large increase of the birth rate cannot be brought about after the war."

"Paul Benazet, the deputy for the district of L'Indre, and Professor Maurice Letulle of the Academy of Medicine have pessimistically raised the question:

"What can we gain by this terrible war, even through a victory, if our race ceases to exist in hundred years?"

"Professor Letulle calculates that the extinction of the nation is inevitable if every French woman does not give at least four children to the country during the next twenty-five years. To stimulate the birth rate Deputy Benazet advocates the payment of large bonuses to couples who have more than two children, but he does not believe that the premiums for births will have the desired result, because in the 'Journal' he despondently exclaims:

"What is the use to ponder over the economic and military future of France? Soon nobody will be left to enjoy the fruits of the victories of our glorious army!"

PICTURE-MACHINE FILTER
TO PREVENT EYE STRAIN

An inventor in Columbus, Ohio, has recently placed on the market a device for eliminating eye strain caused by motion pictures. This result is sought by placing a filter screen directly in front of the ordinary lenses in the picture machine. Popular Mechanics Magazine in its September number describes the filter, which is made of essentially treated glass and has a slightly amber hue. It is held securely in a metal frame and can be attached to any projecting outfit. All light from the electric arc passes through it on its way to the screen, thereby filtering out the ultraviolet rays, which some believe to be responsible for the strain on the eyes that arises from viewing motion pictures.

CAR EQUIPPED WITH
TRUE SURGEON'S OUTFIT

An automobile equipped with mechanical devices by which a crew of three surgeons can carry on all the operation of their trade, has been employed in trimming and treating certain groves in New England. The entire outfit is self-contained and can be moved from point to point easily and rapidly. The appliances are driven by compressed air secured from a pump operated by the automobile's motor. With this outfit several men are able to work on one or more trees at the same time. The September Popular Mechanics Magazine contains a picture of the car and its appliances in use.

A want ad in the Times-Democrat will bring quick results.

BURNING BARN WORTH MILLIONS

Lightning Greatest Cause of Loss-Spontaneous Combustion in Hay.

(Bert B. Buckley, State Fire Marshal)

Ohio's loss from barn fires is a million a year.

Ten years ago the loss on barn buildings was half as much more than the loss on their contents. Now, the value of the contents is greater than that of the building. The great increase in the loss on contents depends upon the increased value of farm products, and, especially upon the fact that since the farm hand has run away to town and the farm girl has followed him, the farmer must have a machine for everything from mowing to milking. These machines stored in the barn are lost, for a barn fire seldom leaves anything of value but the foundation. In most cases there is no fire department within call.

Sweating hay is far the most important cause of this loss, for it produces spontaneous combustion and draws lightning.

Why Hay Heats.

Why does hay become heated and sweat?

The cells in hay continue to live and breathe for some time after it is cut, and they alone, in a close mow, heat the hay to a temperature of 132 F. Added to this is the heat from the microscopic spores of fungi which continue to grow in the blades of hay during its fermentation, the heat created by the development of the hay seeds and the heat of the sun upon the roof.

Spontaneous Combustion.

These three causes acting together may heat hay that is well packed in a close mow so that there is no circulation of air to carry off the heat, to a temperature of 212 F., that at which water boils. Then the hay begins to char; the charcoal so formed absorbs oxygen and the mass grows still hotter. The heat reaches 265 F., and then the mass blazes. Bran, grain and silo material may ignite spontaneously if placed under similar conditions. Many barn fires from this cause are reported "cause unknown," the whole barn seemed ablaze at once.

The report of lightning fires to date indicate that lightning will destroy $250,000 worth of barns this summer.

Spills Down a Funnel.

Sweating hay draws lightning thus: Water is a good conductor of electricity. The moisture from sweating hay rises rapidly because it is heated—more rapidly than the moisture from the fields which rises and forms clouds. So, over the barn is a funnel-shaped shaft of vapor reaching up to the thunder cloud and it constitutes a fairly good lightning rod. Unfortunately this rod is grounded in the hay. Unless a better conductor is run from moist earth along the barn's comb and down again, with proper points above it, electricity which shoots this chute will fire the hay.

Miss Frances Makin is visiting her cousin, Miss Evelyn Rush, in Spencerville.

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES.

There is naught but humor in "The Purple Lady," the Paramount picture now at the Faurot. This dramatization of Sydney Rosenfeld's musical comedy success serves as a capital introduction of a capital comedian, Ralph Herz, and a cast that has seldom been equalled for comic talent. "The Purple Lady" is a picture of delight from start to finish. It sparkles with humor, it is admirably cast, the photography is excellent and the staging the work of a master hand.

"The Purple Lady" drew big audiences to the Faurot yesterday, and larger crowds will be in evidence today, when its worth becomes known. "The Purple Lady" is accompanied by a clever comedy, "His First Tooth," in which Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew have the leading roles, and the most recent edition of Paramount Photographs, the "magazine on the screen."

RUSS BEAT AUSTRIAN MOVE BACK

supreme commander of the German forces on the Somme front, but from information secured from various sources there is little doubt that von Mackensen is the man chosen by the Kaiser and the German general staff to stem the Anglo-French advance.

Although his services on the eastern front may have been competitive, he was formerly in command of the seventh army corps. Gen. von Gallwitz commanded an army group led by von Hindenburg. His operations were carried on north of the Vistula between Warsaw and Ostrolenska.

DEADLOCK IN EAST.

Austrians Reinforced by German First Line Troops.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 18.—A temporary deadlock is developing at some points in Galicia where the Austro-Hungarians, thanks to reinforcements of first line German troops, sent southward by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, have been able to hold their own in the fight with the Russians.

Already the master hand of von Hindenburg, who is now in supreme command over the greater part of the east front, is being felt in the operations.

Despatches from the front state that there is no slackening in the Russian pressure and it is believed that the Austro-German wall must finally crumble before the continuous and impetuous attacks of the Russian soldiers.

Gigantic artillery duels are in progress in many sectors between the Baltic and the Carpathians.

Activity along the Dvina and north of Baranovitch indicate that Gen. Ruzky, the new commander in chief of the northern group of Russian armies, is losing no time in his preparations for an offensive. Masses of fresh troops, guns and ammunition are moving to that section of the Russian front.

It is believed that a new and gigantic enterprise will shortly be under way with the two main army groups of Gen. Ruzky and Gen. Brusilov attacking simultaneously to prevent the Germans from shifting and massing troops.

Aerial activity is becoming greater and many battles are being fought daily between German and Russian aviators. The Germans have concentrated many war planes and Zeppelins on the eastern front with the evident intention of carrying out systematic bombardments of railroads and military establishments behind the Russian front, which has been one of the main factors in leading to the unusual sky activity.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—In the official communique issued at noon the French war office announced the repulse of German counter attacks north of the Somme in the sector of Maurepas. The Germans, rapidly shifting their attention from the British to the French battle line, delivered strong assaults in an effort to recapture some of the ground lost on Wednesday north and south of Maurepas, but all broke down under the French fire.

Before the infantry actions began there had been a long and violent artillery duel in which the Germans combed with shells all the newly won ground of the French.

There was great activity on the east bank of the Meuse on the Verdun front.

The French attacked along the Fleury-Thiaumont line, harling the Germans from their position at Fleury Near Thiaumont the French also made progress.

BELTS CIRCLE CAR'S TIRES
AND PREVENT SKIDDING

To increase the traction of a motor car's driving wheels when sand or rough roads are encountered, and also to prevent skidding on wet pavements, a Washington state man has devised a tire belt which is apparently effective. It is described in the September Popular Mechanics Magazine. It is made of a heavy fabric and passed around to the under side of the running board. Belts are applied to each of the rear wheels and save the wear and tear on the tires, almost doubling, it is said, their mileage and materially decreasing fuel consumption on heavy roads.

This dramatization of Sydney Rosenfeld's musical comedy success serves as a capital introduction of a capital comedian, Ralph Herz, and a cast that has seldom been equalled for comic talent. "The Purple Lady" is a picture of delight from start to finish. It sparkles with humor, it is admirably cast, the photography is excellent and the staging the work of a master hand.

"The Purple Lady" drew big audiences to the Faurot yesterday, and larger crowds will be in evidence today, when its worth becomes known. "The Purple Lady" is accompanied by a clever comedy, "His First Tooth," in which Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew have the leading roles, and the most recent edition of Paramount Photographs, the "magazine on the screen."

U. S. GRAIN STANDARDS ACT

Provides for Establishment of Official Standards and Licensed Inspectors.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The United States Grain Standards Act, which gives the secretary of agriculture authority to establish, as soon as may be, official grain standards applicable to grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce, became a law on August 11, 1916.

The act authorizes the secretary of agriculture to investigate the handling and grading of grain and to establish, as soon as may be, standards for corn, wheat, rye, oats, barley, flaxseed and other grain. Not less than 90 days public notice must be given in advance of the date on which any such standard becomes effective.

Whenever such standards are established for any grain, the act forbids the shipment or delivery for shipment, in interstate or foreign commerce originating in the United States, of any such grain which is sold, offered for sale, or consigned for sale by grade, unless it is inspected and graded by a licensed inspector, either at the place of shipment, at a point in transit, or at the destination. In case no licensed inspector is located either at the point of shipment or at the point of destination, the grain may be shipped without inspection, in which event either party to the transaction may refer any dispute as to the grade to the secretary of agriculture.

When grain shipped or delivered for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce is required to be inspected and graded by a licensed inspector, it is made unlawful for any person to represent that it is of a grade other than that stated in a certificate issued in compliance with the act.

Shipment by Sample.

The act permits the shipment in interstate or foreign commerce of grain sold by sample or by type, or under any description which is not false and misleading and does not include any of the terms of the official grain standards.

The secretary of agriculture is authorized to examine grain that has been certified to conform to any grade of the official grain standards, or that has been shipped in interstate or foreign commerce. If, after an opportunity for hearing has been given to the interested parties, it is determined that any such grain has been incorrectly certified or has been sold under a name, description or designation which is false or misleading, he may publish his findings.

Right of Appeal.

When grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce has been inspected as required by the act, any interested party may, either with or without reinspection, appeal the question of its grade to the secretary of agriculture. The secretary of agriculture is authorized to determine the true grade of the grain, and his findings are made prima facie evidence of that fact in suits between the parties in federal courts. Reasonable fees may be charged for hearing disputes and appeals. When appeals are sustained, such fees are to be refunded. Every person employed to inspect and grade grain for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce is prohibited from certifying the grain according to the official grain standards, unless he holds an unsuspended and unrevoked license issued by the secretary of agriculture.

Licensing Inspectors.

Any person who presents satisfactory evidence of competency may be licensed as an inspector under the act. In states which have or may hereafter have state grain inspection departments, the secretary of agriculture is required to issue licenses to persons authorized and employed to inspect and grade grain under the laws of such state. Licensed inspectors and persons employed by the secretary of agriculture for carrying out the provisions of the act are prohibited from having any interest in any grain elevator or warehouse, or in the merchandising of grain, or from being employed by any person owning or operating any grain elevator or warehouse. Licensed inspectors are required to keep records of all grain inspected by them and to make detailed reports to the secretary of agriculture. The license of any inspector found to be incompetent, or to have issued any false certificate of grade, or otherwise to have violated any provision of the act, may be suspended or revoked by the secretary of agriculture.

Penalties.

Any licensed inspector who knowingly inspects or grades improperly grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce, or knowingly gives any false certificate of grade, or accepts a bribe for neglect or improper performance of duty, may also be punished by fine or imprisonment or both.

Similar punishment may be imposed upon other persons who violate certain portions of the act, particularly those with reference to the inspection by licensed inspectors of grain shipped in interstate or foreign commerce.

An appropriation of $250,000 is made for the enforcement of the act. The necessary rules and regulations will be prepared and published at the earliest possible date, in order that persons interested may have an opportunity to become familiar with them before any of the standards become effective.

Objects Sought in the Act.

The benefits which the act seeks to confer are described in the language used in the annual report of 1914 of the secretary of agriculture with particular reference to the establishment of standards for corn:

Grades for that grain—if generally adopted and uniformly applied throughout the country, will simplify the relations between producers, dealers and consumers. Under these grades, fairly used, the grower or shipper of a superior quality of grain will be in a position to demand from the buyer the fair value to which the quality of his product entitles him. On the other hand, the producer of a product of inferior quality will receive a lower return.

GUN CARRIAGE AS TRAILER OR MOTORCYCLE SIDE-CAR.

A new machine-gun unit adapted to rapid maneuvering is described in the September Popular Mechanics Magazine. It consists of a motorcycle and a two-wheeled carriage on which are mounted a machine gun, ammunition lockers, and a protective shield. There is room also to carry the gunner. The frame of the motorcycle is so constructed that the carriage can be attached to either side as a side-car or to the rear as a trailer.

GEN. PERSHING SAVES VET MULE FROM AWFUL PUNISHMENT

'Gabriel' Escapes Drubbing
by Appearing at Commander's Tent.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN
PUNITIVE EXPEDITION, MEXICO,
AUGUST 18.—The army motor truck train is a highly efficient unit of the American army and plays an important part in the life of this expedition. And the truck drivers, as picturesque a set of pirates as ever scuttled a can of gasoline, being a new type into the service that is not without merit.

There is something heroic about driving the immense cars across the forbidden trails that try to jerk the wheels from the drivers' hands and send the motors spluttering to destruction in some deep and rocky arroyo.

But it is doubtful if the motors
and their drivers will ever achieve the fame of the army mule and his master, the army mule skinner.

There is an intelligence behind

much mischief that cannot be achieved by a disordered carbonator
in the center of the desert. There is an element in the costume of mulish stubbornness and mule-skinner's language that is not rivalled when a motor settles down in the deepest rut and refuses to budge.

This is the story of one of these contests.

Gabriel, a wise old mule that has become a veteran in the service took advantage of her master's carelessness at the picket line. He slipped a loose halter, edged toward the end of the line and a moment later was galloping to freedom. A moment later, too, the mule-skinner discovered Gabriel's flight and singled the atmosphere with conversation that would never pass the censor.

"Oh, you double-eyed offspring of perdition," he remarked when he grew calmer. "I sure will skin you alive for this."

Then he picked up a young log,
about the size of a wagon tongue,
and started in pursuit. Gabriel made a regular mule's chase of it.
He waited until the mule-skinner was within striking distance. Then, with a gay flip of his heels, he was off to a point quarter of a mile distant. Here he paused long enough to bray ironically.

"May all the afflicts you eat turn to barbed wire in your copper riveted insides," swore the mule-skinner,
as he trudged through the alkali dust in pursuit. By this time
the whole camp was watching.
Brother mule skinner was offering

MORGAN'S SON NOW A NAVAL "ROOKIE"

JUNIUS SPENCER MORGAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Included in the list of 900 "rookies" who are sailing from New York aboard the battleships
Maine, Kentucky and New Jersey, is Junius Spencer Morgan,
son of the multi-millionaire
banker, J. P. Morgan. The
"rookie" cruise is a naval
"Pattaburg" and during the month it will last, the citizen sailors will be taught as much of life aboard a man of war as

the officers and crews of the ships can instill into them.

Altogether more than 2,000 citizens sailors are taking the course on ships sailing from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk.

Mr. Morgan is on the U. S. S.
Maine. He went aboard carrying a dress suit case containing a towel, soap and a shaving outfit. He paid $30 for his sailor's kit and this also includes his board for a month.

sarcastic advice to Gabriel's master.
Gabriel rolled lazily in the dust,
wagged his ears, brayed some more
and otherwise informed the world
that he was having a splendid time.
The chase lasted two hours. Even Gabriel seemed to tire. As for the mule-skinner, he was reduced to an exhausted human, spurred on only by the desire to capture one slender-legged mule and splinter the club
he still carried between the two long ears. Gabriel loosed along toward Officers' Row, with the mule-skinner dog-trotting in pursuit.

In front of General Pershing's tent waves the red flag with a white star that symbolizes the commander's quarters. Toward this flag Gabriel ambled. There, with a meek and innocent look in his eyes, Gabriel came to a dead stop and waited.

To the spot the mule-skinner crept, taking a fresh hold with both hands on his club. He waved it a couple of times teasingly as he came.
"Now, you sin-spotted brute," he hissed. "Now I'm going to beat your hard head into a pulp."

And then General Pershing stepped for a moment from his tent and surveyed the scene. The mule-skinner dropped his club. He approached Gabriel softly. He patted her neck tenderly.

"Why do you act like this, Gabriel?" he asked. "Why can't you
be like the other nice mules?"

Then he led Gabriel away. Gabriel, the veteran, smiled a wise, mushy smile.

are a wise investment. The unaccustomed glare of strong sunlight on pavements, fields or water is positively injurious to most eyes, irrespective of whether glasses are required for ordinary purposes.

The correct tint of amber shuts out these harmful heat rays, but leaves the vision as clear and distinct as ever. Neither does it give the landscape the "gloomy" appearance associated with the use of smoked or some lenses of other colors.

SPORT NEWS BY HAROLD GENSEL

Records Shattered In Trial

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—If trial heats are any indication, records will be broken tomorrow in the Grand Prix automobile races on the local speedway. Two American records were broken yesterday in the speed trials. Ralph De Palma drove his Mercedes for 50 miles around the course and made it at the rate of 105 miles an hour, a new American record for that distance and within three miles of the mark set by Jean Chassagne with his 12-cylinder Sunbeam at Brooklands in 1913. Dario Resta made one lap of the two-mile track in 1:03.44, at the rate of 113.5 miles per hour, the fastest two miles ever driven in a qualifying heat for an American speedway event. It is a fraction of a second better than the mark made by Barney Oldfield with the front drive Christy in June, when he tried to exceed the world's record of 115 miles an hour for two miles. There will be eight starters in tomorrow's race, as follows:

De Palma, Mercedes.
Christians, Sunbeam.
Galvin, Sunbeam.
D'Alene, Duesenberg.
Milton, Duesenberg.
Chevrolet, Frontenac.
George Buzane, Duesenberg and the Hoskins Special.

Out for Tennis Honors.

Karl H. Behr, of California, is one of the contenders in the lawn tennis tourney of the western and the eastern champions to take place at the West Side Lawn Tennis Club, New York City. He will also be a contender for national honors in the national championship tourney to be held later in August.

Welsh Is Favorite In Fight

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 18.—"If Freddie Welsh stays ten rounds he will get the worst lacing he ever got in his life for the next ten from 'Charley White,'" declared Nate Lewis, White's manager today. Lewis thus takes exception to the general opinion among fight fans that if his man can win from the champion on Labor Day at Colorado Springs, he will have to do it with a knockout.

"If the fight goes to a finish," added Lewis, "Welsh will finish so nearly out that there will be no argument as to who is the winner." Welsh is a 6 to 5 favorite in the betting, and there has been one wager of $60 to $20 that White will not knock out Welsh.

FALL KILLS MARION WOMAN.
MARION, O., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Philip Bauer, 72, was fatally injured when she fell in alighting from a street car. She suffered a fractured skull.

Egan Leads Lima Team In Percent Batting Column

A new name appears at the top of the list of compiled batting averages of members of the Lima Independent team. Egan, the newcomer, annexed a percentage of .750 last Sunday, when he was credited with three hits out of four times at bat.

Those that are not acquainted with the swatting ability of Egan might consider that he is a flash in the pan. However, this is not the case, as he is considered one of the most consistent batsmen on the local team. Without doubt his percentage will drop some after the next game, but he can always be looked for to hold his own toward the top of the column.

Catcher Herring proves to be one of the most consistent batters on the roster, having amassed sufficient hits for a percentage of .342. Costello and Carroll conclude the list of batters to hold a place in the select 300 class. McClellan, a new addition to the local club, was unable to connect for a hit Sunday, but he can be counted on to be in the midst of the fight next Sunday. The batting averages:

	AB.	H.	Pct.
Egan	4	1	.750
Herring	49	17	.342
Costello	15	5	.333
Carroll	50	16	.320
Reynolds	58	16	.276
J. Malloy	40	11	.275
Long	51	13	.254
Thomas	4	1	.250
Flannery	38	9	.236
Harrison	45	9	.200

STUDY

The Way It Has Worked

BEFORE GIVING MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP A TEST IN LIMA.

If you want to do the best thing for the city, investigate the effect of city control before trying out the scheme at home.

You will not have to look far to see how the municipal ownership idea has fared in other cities.

Alliance, Ohio, loses $18,250 annually on her water works plant.

Ft. Wayne, Indiana, lost $29,784.47 on her electric light system between September 1, 1908, and January 1, 1910.

Troy, Ohio, lost $3,097.22 on one year's business when political interference drove away some of the city electric plant's best power customers, in 1913.

Wilmington, Ohio, sold her municipal electric plant in 1903, for $12,000, after $110,000 had been expended on it in ten years. It was a wrecked plant giving only intermittent service. The people refused to sanction further expenditures and voted 896 to 34 to sell.

Xenia, Ohio, sold her light plant in 1896 for $2,500, one-tenth of the original cost. A contract was then made with a private concern which saved the city $40 per lamp per year.

These figures show how municipal ownership of public utilities will work. Everybody's business is nobody's business. Neglect and carelessness, political interference and inefficiency, characterize the system.

When a private company fails to meet its obligations it goes bankrupt. When a city fails to meet its obligations it calls for more taxes.

If municipal ownership fails elsewhere, why will it not fail here? If it fails in the case of other utilities, why will it succeed with the telephone?

BROKE HIS RECORD.
John Pillard, 40, 510 North Union street, came to the police station early this morning and stated that he had never been arrested in his life. Shortly after, the police patrol was called to 125 West Eureka street. When Motorcop Thomas and Patrolman Landfair arrived on the scene Pillard was in a house not his home and making himself comfortable. With his shoes off he was laying on a couch sound asleep. He is now at the city prison.

THE more particular a man is about his clothes, the better we like to see him come into our store.

SHORT SPORT

McGraw must think very well of Benny Kauff's fence busting ability. He sent in a pinch hitter for the former Federal league star.

But despite the change, the Giants could not shake the Vaughn jinx and lost out, the Cubs scoring the only run of the game.

The Red Sox did not look very much like pennant winners yesterday, when the other bostons experts trampled them hard, and used the kalsomine brush with telling effect.

The Yankees have a new lease of life. They trimmed the Indians for the second time and made it four straight victories.

The Browns did not find easy picking in Quakertown. The Athletics beat them in the first game and made them step lively to stave off defeat in the second.

FRAUNCES TAVERN, 200 YEARS OLD, IS STANDING IN N. Y.

Famous Hostelry Before the Revolution Now Kept
as Museum.

Great Men From Washington Down Are on List of Guests.

By Frederic J. Haskin.
NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A house that has stood in the midst of a great city for 200 years, a house where six generations of men have eaten, argued, fought, made love, bought, sold and stolen is a rarity anywhere. They are not making many here now that will last that long. In the days when most of the brick had to be brought from Holland and England, they built more carefully. That's the reason—or at least one of the reasons—why Fraunces Tavern down by the Battery is still standing and doing business. Skyscrapers stand all around it and try to bully it off the earth; but under the benevolent care and protection of the Sons of the Revolution it bravely stands its ground, becoming like some old ladies, ever more quaint by contrast, but not a bit older.

This Fraunces Tavern is just the kind of a place that historical societies like to coddle, and all sorts of people to visit, for it has not only been occupied a very long time, but the very best people have come here. It appeals not only to the imagination, but to the snobbery of men. In Fraunces Tavern you are in company of some of the most respectable of American ghosts. George Washington and nearly all of his officers came here when he bade them his famous farewell, while at the time that "Black Sam" Fraunces dispensed good dinners here nearly everyone of any consequence in New York came to dine. Upstairs in the museum, you can find numberless relics of the departed great—bits of their hair, their buttons, their dinner plates and coffee cups and hats and shoe buckles and swords and toothpicks, the letters they wrote and the newspapers they read, and all the other trifling personal junk which has value and fascination because it belonged to some one who was supposed to be great and is certainly dead. Almost any famous man might put his great-great grandchildren through college by making them a bequest of his old clothes bag, his manure set and his kitchen utensils.

But in Fraunces Tavern you are not merely in the presence of the great dead, you also may sit in a chair which perchance has been warmed by the great living. Since George Washington saw fit to come here, although it is not exactly the same place that it was in 1783, and is certainly not in the same relative location, the sea having been moved away on the one hand and the city on the other, nevertheless the great men of today make occasion to visit the tavern. At least one president, still living though now ex-hatched here, namely William Howard Taft. Ambassador Jusserand of the French republic gave a tea here. J. P. Morgan ate here a few years ago when the Harvard and Yale classes of 1889 held their first joint reunion at Fraunces Tavern. Any number of lesser lights have been here at one time or another (abused officers, district attorneys, senators and other such relatively small fry are as common as Burgomasters, Colonial governors, and things like that were in the days of the culinary wizard, Black Sam).

The long and remarkable story of this ancient roof is set forth with chronological and unimpeachable accuracy in a little pamphlet which you can buy from the City History club for a nickel, so we will not stick closely thereto, but rather embroider it, and recommend the pamphlet as a check for the conscientious.

The place was built about 1719 and at that time it was almost on the shore of the bay, which has subsequently been moved by the filling process, and it was also in the heart of the best retail district of New York, which has moved up toward the middle of Manhattan, leaving the tavern, which is on lower Broadway with very few pleasant or respectable associations except its own memories.

It was first used as a residence and subsequently as a store "selling all kinds of European and East Indian goods," which is more than any store in New York attempts today.

The place got its name and its real start in life in 1757, when it was purchased by a thrifty West Indian negro, Samuel Fraunces, who was commonly known as "Black Sam" and who seems to have been a cook and caterer of talent if not genius. A consideration of the story of Fraunces Tavern shows that the place of cooks in history has been overlooked and underestimated. It is they who bring great men together and cause great events to be planned and set on foot. Thus the Sons of Liberty and the Vigilance committee got together at Black Sam's and planned to throw England's tea overboard before they would pay a tax on it, and there met the famous committee of correspondence, of which we never heard before, but which, according to the History club, which quotes Woodrow Wilson, was the real beginning and origin of the continental congress, and so the seed from which our great and glorious republic sprang.

At any rate, here under Black Sam's roof, and over Black Sam's excellent canvas—back duck and venison haunch and canary and Maderia and musty ale, were discussed and fomented the plans which ultimately resulted in the

Repudiates Confession That Would Save Chas. Stielow

ALBION, N. Y. Aug. 17.—District Attorney, Knickerbocker, of Orleans county, says that Irving King, the itinerant peddler, who is alleged to have confessed to the murder of Charles Phelps, wealthy farmer, and Mary Volcott, his housekeeper, clearing Charles Stielow, under sentence of death for the crime, has repudiated his confession. He added that King made the false confession in the hope of obtaining $3,000 for it and getting off with a light sentence.

United States of America. It was the excellent eating and drinking at this Queen's Head Tavern as the proprietor called it, that brought our brave forefathers together. It was his sparkling wine out of dusty bottles that set the discussion going and warmed each man to outdo his fellow in brave words. And suppose that Black Sam had been a bad cook, and had given these excellent gentlemen a colic, or that his wine had been too heavy and they had gone to sleep? What if Washington had been a dyspeptic, Hamilton afflicted with the gout? It becomes apparent that Black Sam's cookery was at once the starting point and the sustaining pabulum of American liberty.

But it appears that plots against liberty as well as for it were fomented at Black Sam's. For in 1776 there were men in England who saw that the great personality of Washington was one of the greatest dangers to England's hold upon the colonies, and these men were not above removing the danger as best they could.

So it happened that a frequenter of Black Sam's place was a young Englishman named Hickey, who had deserted from the British army, and enlisted as an American volunteer. Because he was a clever man, despite his bad record, he had become one of General Washington's body-guard.

This man was the king pin in a plot to assassinate Washington, and the first step in the plan was for him to win the help of the general's housekeeper. This person was none other than the young and attractive West Indian girl, Phoebe Fraunces, daughter of Black Sam. The murderer first won her heart and made her his mistress. Then he let her know his plan and the part she was to play. There is no record of the struggle that took place in the mind of Phoebe Fraunces when she found that the man she loved was the appointed murderer of her master. But the fact remains that she revealed the plot to Washington and saw her lover hung.

After this romantic incident there rolls by a long century and a half of uneventful years for the little tavern. Black Sam keeps it a while longer and many a ball and rout is held there in the dining room and up stairs in the long-room many a weighty and uninteresting meeting. In 1784 Washington here bids farewell to 11 of his generals. In 1785 Fraunces sells the place to become the steward of General Washington.

Now come sad days for the tavern. New York is extending her craggy canyons up toward the other end of the island. As the years pass the neighborhood of Fraunces Tavern where once gathered all the brave and great and beautiful of the nation, becomes out a dreary business section near the waterfront. Twice the place is damaged by fire. It escapes destruction by a miracle. Finally in 1907 the Sons of the Revolution came to its rescue. It is renovated and restored to almost exactly its original appearance. A tavern is once again opened on the ground floor. North with the stream of people that flows through its doors for over a century is renewed. They are people from over where and of all sorts, people from around the corner and from the other side of the earth.

What is the fascination that brings the people to this little hidden place? Do they get a real patriotic thrill from the sight of these rooms where their forefathers planned the nation? Looking them over, you doubt it. Too many of their forefathers lived in Russia, Poland, Ireland, and other places where George Washington is not important.

Maybe it tickles their fancy to dine here where the great of the earth have eaten. But most of them do not seem to enquire about the great who have eaten here. They do not even invest a nickel in the excellent little chronology of the City History club.

No, it is none of these things, so far as most of them are concerned. At the imminent risk of conveying valuable city gratis let the secret be told. Fraunces tavern is now run by a thrifty German, who serves most excellent things to eat. It is one of the few places in lower Manhattan where you can get a really first-class lunch. Emil Westberg, for all his difference of origin, is the true and worthy successor of Black Sam. Even as the great men of '76 laid their plans in the tavern because the canvas-back shot in the bay, was good, so now it is the succulent Long Island duckling cooked to a turn which brings the modern millionaire here to frame his latest deal. He is not thinking about the old Colonial boys any more than they thought about him. But the two have one thing in common—the love of good eating. Truly, simple are the motives of men, and the same in all ages.

OPERATION SAVES LIFE OF SYRIAN WHO TRIED SUICIDE

Peter Anastosoff, the Syrian who shot himself several weeks ago near Delphos, and was found on the lawn at the home of Charles G. Steine in a dying condition, was operated on at Hope hospital in Fort Wayne, to remove the bullets which lodged near the spinal cord and below the heart. The operation was declared successful.

With the bullet between the first and second vertebrae and touching the spinal cord, the Syrian would never have been able to move his head. He has been in a plaster cast since the attempt at self-destruction.

At that time he told the story of receiving a letter from his wife in the old country, saying that a strange man was trying to get their children from her, and knowledge of the wide separation caused him to attempt suicide.
